The crowdfunding campaign on Kistarter, Campfire and Indiegogo in 2017-2019 revealed the growth points for Hushme and thanks to the feedback of our supporters we were able to massively improve the product in 3 years.

In 2021 we have started mass production of Hushme Classic in white color, with a much better microphone quality and improved design, and we are soon to be ready to launch 3 additional colors.

Hushme is already in the hands of our customers from USA, Japan, Canada, China, UK, Germany, France, and many more countries worldwide.

After selling our first units and being reviewed by such renowned tech YouTubers as Adri Geek and Good Mythical Morning, we can say that Hushme is not only used for private conversations in public, but it is also a good choice for gamers, cohabitants, home workers, people who live in a house with thin walls because it dampens the voice and prevents noise bleeding into the microphone from the outside, so that nobody around you is being disturbed by the loud noises or there are no child yells leaking into the microphone during the video calls at work.

“Hushme is an original and quality product, ideal for gamers.” - Adri Geek, a popular French tech YouTuber.

“I can hear you, but it is muffled.” - Good Mythical Morning.

Besides that, court reporters and writers who narrate their texts on the go or in noisy places are already interested in Hushme because it may help them get the work done much better and quicker.
